HONGKONG, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 12, 1894.

CHINESE OFFICIAL ARROGANCE
IN BRITISH COLONIES.

The Chinese Consul-General in Singapore, Mr. Huang Tsun Hsien, has recently been acting as if that place were a Chinese, not a British settlement. Pressure on our space precludes our detailing the circumstances in the issue, but we append the suggestive "checkmate" promptly applied by the Straits Government:

A Proclamation issued by the Protector of Chinese under instructions from His Excellency the Governor of the Straits Settlements in the matter of the issuing by the Chinese Consul-General of Letters of Instructions or Li Tuan appointing certain Hollanders merchants of Singapor to recruit Hollanders about to return to China and send them to the Chinese Consulate to receive passports:

Recently, without any reference to the local Government, the Chinese Consul-General has taken on himself to act ultra vires and go beyond the rights and privileges of his consular position. As this is a matter that may lead to serious misunderstanding amongst Chinese traders and others the Government has instructed me to make a matter clear to the Chinese here. It is therefore necessary to explain to you that Chinese Consular officers are appointed in the Straits Settlements as commercial agents on behalf of China, and that they can in no way exercise any local power issue notices with reference to local affairs, or like local offices give official commands to Chinese living here under English rule. It is their duty to foster trade and encourage and assist their countrymen in all commercial undertakings.

With reference to the matter of the Chinese Consul-General issuing Li Tuan, or Letters of Instructions to Chinese living in this Colony, it is beyond the power of the Chinese Consul to act in this way. This is putting himself out of touch with the local offices of the Straits Government, and taking upon himself to give Chinese Government instructions in an English-governed country to Chinese living under English rule. Still further, is it not the Chinese who are British subjects, bearing in mind the Chinese Consul-General has committed a grave mistake and gone still further beyond his legitimate powers? In order to make this matter clear, it is my duty to explain fully to the Chinese living here, that they are, as long as they reside here, under the control and rule of Her Majesty's Government, and that the Chinese Consul-General can in no way be allowed to come between the Chinese and the local Government. It will be wrong to be under the misapprehension that the Chinese Consul is able to intercede in any way in local affairs where Chinese are interested, except in conjunction with and with the knowledge and consent of the local Government. The incident has caused a sensation in sporting circles.
